内容简介

A hiker in Washington State's Olympic National Park vanished eight years ago. Only a pile of bones remains-but that's enough to go for Gideon Oliver, the "Skeleton Detective". He deduces that someone, or something, of superhuman strength killed the young man-and that the spear that killed him is identical to those used by hunters ten thousand years ago...

And now, a young woman has disappeared-and Gideon can't help but think she'll meet the same fate. To save her, he must study the sparse records of an extinct tribe of American Indians in far-off California-and embark on a dangerous trek through North America's only rain forest...
