Hilary Hemingway is an award-winning screenwriter and a writer for The Miami Herald, Interview, and Harper's Bazaar. She produces evening news for FOX Television and serves as the Executive Director of the International Hemingway Festival.

内容简介

Fifteen years after her father's death, Hilary Hemingway received her curious inheritance. It was an audiocassette filled with the voice of her father telling outrageous stories about his hunting expeditions with his famous older brother, Ernest Hemingway. In this mesmerizing book, Hilary transcribes these stories, revealing the bond between two larger-than-life brothers-and tells of her own quest to make peace with the painful parts of the Hemingway legacy.
